

On behalf Estonian Theatre Agency, we are glad to invite you to Estonian Theatre Festival DRAAMA 2018: Baltic Forum, which takes place from September 3d until September 9th, 2018 in Tartu, Estonia.

This year's festival is dedicated to 100th anniversary of the Republic of Estonia. To mark our centennial, The Estonian Association of Performing Arts Institutions is bringing the century-long story of the Republic of Estonia to the stage. The project is called „Tale of the century“. All productions will be created in cooperation between at least two theatre companies – one big and one small – bringing together 22 organisations within the project. In terms of themes, the century has been divided into decades as well as added a piece about the future – hence 13 new theatre pieces will be created under the aegis of the comprehensive production project.

DRAAMA 2018: Baltic Forum brings all productions together in Tartu and adds a handful of more experimental cross-type productions to the mix. All performances in the main programme will be translated into English.

Additionally, an international conference on Baltic drama is held on September 8th. Presentations of three Baltic countries drama and theatre is a nice way to get an introduction to our theatre worlds.

Festival provides accommodation and complimentary festival tickets for foreign guests but does not cover travel fees.

Please send a short introduction of yourself to apply to Liisi Aibel, liisi@teater.ee. The deadline is May 15th, 2018.

Best regards,
